The High/Scope Curriculum Model:

DISCOUERY Encourages children to articulate their ideas, choices, and decisions.

Planning Time

Enables children to construct their own knowldge within an environment

Work Time

Active Learning: Children learn by doing. Active learning stresses hands-on experiences with people, events,

materials, and ideas.

Exercises children's capacities to form and talk about mental pictures.

Recall Time

Plan-Do-Review: Children learn best from activities which they themselves plan, carry-out, and review.

Children return materials and equipment to their label their labeled places and store their projects. Clean-up Time parents & the Community: At Room to Grow, we believe that a constant flow of communication arents a the teachers and the parents is essential to the success of the child's education.

Activities based on the childrens' needs. abilities, interests, and cognitive goals involve each child in using their senses, making choices and solving problems.

Builds a sense of community belonging while providing children with a repertoire of shared experiences.
